

NORTH TEXAS FOOD BANK WELCOMES NEW BOARD MEMBERS, BOARD CHAIR

Anurag Jain steps down from NTFB board, welcomes Michael Brookshire as chair

DALLAS, JULY 1, 2020—The North Texas Food Bank announced changes to the Board of Directors today, including a new Board Chair: Michael Brookshire. This new term begins on July 1. In addition to a new Board Chair, the Food Bank welcomed six new Board Members to their diverse team.

Michael Brookshire has served on the Food Bank board for five years, and is stepping into the helm after Anurag Jain, who chaired the Board of NTFB for three years and was a Board member for nine years. Jain has left an indelible mark on the organization; he was a part of the strategic planning process when NTFB pledged to provide 92 million meals by 2025- a feat recently completed five years ahead of schedule. Jain was also instrumental in supporting the NTFB during the organization's response to COVID-19 by developing an initiative to pay displaced hospitality industry workers to serve at nonprofits.

For his outstanding service, Jain was honored by fellow board members as Chair Emeritus through 2025 allowing him to continue to lead as an ambassador for NTFB. Jain and his predecessor, Tom Black, who served as chair from 2013-2017, were both given the distinction as LIFE Board Members.

"North Texas is a better place thanks to the contributions of Anurag Jain," said Trisha Cunningham, President and CEO of the North Texas Food Bank. "Our team owes him immense gratitude, but we know that with Michael at the helm we will continue to have steady leadership. As we continue to respond to COVID-19 and plan for even more meal distributions, it is exciting to have Michael's insights and acumen."

The Food Bank has more than doubled distributions in the last few months, providing more than 40 million pounds of food between March and July. This output is expected for the foreseeable future, as the community continues to grapple with COVID-19.

"Our community has never seen anything like what we are facing with COVID-19," said Michael Brookshire, incoming Board Chair for the North Texas Food Bank. "While the impact of the virus is devastating, the community has showcased what we are all about: support, kindness and paying it forward. That is the mentality that I want to bring to the team at the North Texas Food Bank. They are doing incredible work each day, and I am humbled to be a part of this team. I want to thank Anurag, as well as other previous Board Members and Chairs who have mentored me. I am thankful to have this opportunity to make a positive difference."

ABOUT THE NORTH TEXAS FOOD BANK

The North Texas Food Bank (NTFB) is a top-ranked nonprofit hunger-relief organization operating a state-of-the-art volunteer and distribution center in Plano, the Perot Family Campus. Last year, the Food Bank worked hard in partnership with member agencies from our Feeding Network to provide access to more than 95 million nutritious meals across a diverse 13-county service area, exceeding our goal by five years to provide access to 92 million annual meals by 2025. But the need for hunger relief is complex and in order to meet the continued need, the NTFB is always working to increase our food distribution efforts and bridge the hunger gap for children, seniors, and families in North Texas.

NTFB is a member of Feeding America, a national hunger-relief organization.
